

As a British International School in Kota Kinabalu we take the health and safety of our students and adults on site very seriously. We understand the importance of teachers having both the skills and the confidence to successfully respond to a wide range of potential medical situations from a fall in the playground to an injury on the football field and anything inbetween. Over the last two years a rolling programme of training sessions led by staff from Fieldskills has seen over 50 KIS staff trained in first response medical skills. I have nothing but praise and appreciation for the expertise and professionalism of the staff from Fieldskills who have ensured that all the courses have been very positively received by participating staff and have achieved our stated aim of making the school a safer place for all our students and adults. I would recommend the first aid training courses run by Fieldskills without any hesitation to anyone seeking to make their home, work place or their leisure adventures safer.
