

Joe

When Joe graduated from Business School in 1983, he took a year or so to do what he loves most - play music. He then started a full time job in the sales department of a local hotel, and from there he tried his hands at shipping, direct selling and other sales and marketing, and then started a business with a partner. When the worldwide recession hit Malaysia in 1997, he moved to Brunei to take up a contract job there. In 2006 he and his family moved to Kota Kinabalu so he could take an admin role at Fieldskills, which at that time was at its infancy and hasn't gotten off just yet.

He now does almost anything, from customer search and marketing to detailed planning and running of trips, to conducting training courses. And it's not unknown for him to be roped into cleaning bikes, driving trucks, cooking at camps, setting up hammocks and even using his musical talents to entertain guests. Born and raised in some of the roughest interiors of Borneo, Joe feels equally at home in our jungle.

Joe was trained as a First Aid trainer by ITC First Aid Ltd, UK back in 2007. He is a hands-on and a rather lively trainer and is HRDF-qualified. He has been conducting courses for us since 2007 and is overall responsible for our training department in Borneo.

He either goes trekking at Bukit Padang or cycling in the morning when he is in KK and finds time to play basketball or go to the beach with his son Erik.
